Latino middle, high school students and parents get information, training at conference

Five hundred Latino middle and high school students and parents are expected to attend a conference sponsored by the Sacramento City Unified School District on Monday, March 23 starting at 9 a.m. in the Sacramento State University Union Grand Ballroom.

The theme for the day is “United, Yes We Can.” Students will receive college and career information led by high school and college counselors. Cultural performances include the Danza Azteca Cihuacoatl, and workshops in poetry.

Parent sessions will focus on how to improve children’s education and college preparation.
